

Young Health Professionals Society

Position: Director, Board of Directors

The Young Health Professionals Society (YHPS) is a new professional and social organization dedicated to serving young professionals in academic and research institutions, advocacy groups, government agencies, provider organizations, not-for-profit organizations, and other stakeholders in the health sector. Current tentative events include monthly happy hours, workshops, volunteering events, and other networking opportunities. YHPS is currently forming the Founding Board of Directors to start this organization.

YHPS strives to be a well-established not-for-profit organization that will have a lasting effect on its members and community. To do this, we are looking to grow the organization from its initial programming. There is no monetary compensation for this position. Young professionals are encouraged to apply.

Purpose: To create, govern, oversee policy and direction, and assist with the leadership and general promotion of YHPS so as to support the organization's mission and needs.

Mission statement: The Young Health Professionals Society is dedicated to promoting increased awareness and communication among young professionals of the various stakeholders in the public and private health sector.
